Subject: Land Clearing law reforms
Date: Wednesday, 20 April 2016 7:37:24 PM

I am writing to support the reforms to the current and destructive land clearing laws. While I recognise the need for agricultural land, it does not have to be at the expense of large areas of virgin native landscapes. The constant destruction of habitats is not sustainable, every animal, insect and organism is vital to our existence, take one group away then the fine balance is disrupted then it flows on to create another problem on and on until all of a sudden we have no bees, no native fish, no native predators, no healthy ecosystem.

The native people of this land did less destruction in some sixty thousand years than the Greed of Europeans have managed in two hundred years, I would like to do my little bit by ending the laws brought in by a greedy LNP government that had more power than it ever deserved and wholly abused its majority in the parliament to support large corporations

Please restrict land requisition to vital infrastructure such as dams, rail, road and channels to get water to land that can be developed into viable agricultural enterprises

Your sincerely

Paul Hutchins
