Vegetation Management (Reinstatement) and Other Legislation Amendment Bill 2016

Submission:

The link between desertification and tree clearing or loss by other means (eg grazing) is unequivocal. The Sahara of course is a perfect example.

Add to this the compounded impacts from climate change, allowing continued and/or increases in Australia's and Queensland rate of clearing is unwise and in the face of the evidence, simply stupid and reckless.

I provide this very brief submission from a family background of farming in beef cattle and sheep in South Africa. (An uncle, advised some African governments in long term drought on management of their state herds).

And I watch with deep concerns at how the very different and fragile Australian soils and environment are being (mis) managed for the long term.
