

From: Jackie Cooper
To: Agriculture Resources and Environment Committee
Subject: Do not change public rights to object to mining. Mineral and Energy Resources Bill 2014
Date: Monday, 7 July 2014 12:20:33 PM

The Research Director
Agriculture, Resources and Environment Committee
Parliament House
George Street
Brisbane 4000
7.7.2014

Dear Sir/Madam

Mineral and Energy Resources (Common Provisions) Bill 2014

Thank you for the opportunity to make a submission to the Committee.

I have firsthand experience of living in a place with mines. I have seen the huge swathes of destroyed country that can never be remediated to their original condition: a landscape churned over to a great depth, as occurs on North Stradbroke Island, like Humpty Dumpty cannot be put back together again. The best would be that the landforms will be returned and rehabilitation faithfully carried out. But unfortunately rehabilitation is not carried out with the same avidity as the mining operations. For these reasons alone I believe that public rights to object to mining proposals must not be curtailed.

Even small mines may last for decades and have serious effects on our finances, ecology, environment and society. Public objection rights are powerful rights to go to court, unlike mere consultation. Public objection rights to proposed mines are essential to enable the costs and benefits to be debated openly in Court and to deter the type of corruption exposed in New South Wales. I say, do not change those existing rights under Queensland law.

So I oppose the changes proposed in the following clauses.

- Clauses 418 and 420
These clauses remove existing community notification rights and rights to object to mining lease applications. Changing land tenure to allow for mining rather than another land use could affect a broad section of the public. Therefore the narrow definition of an 'affected person' proposed, which would exclude neighbours or community groups or people in the water catchment, is absurd. Land use decision making processes for other industries provide for community submission and appeal rights, so there is no good reason why mining tenure should be exempt from this basic standard.
- Clause 245
Limiting community notification and formal objection rights to the Land Court to 'site specific' environmental authorities will, in conjunction with the above clauses, remove all existing public rights to lodge formal objections to the Land Court in up to 90% of mining projects^[1] in Queensland. This is unacceptable and fails to recognise the positive impact of community objection rights. The same mining companies that want to limit public objections are often foreign-owned. Suggestions by State government Ministers that objectors lodge frivolous or vexatious cases is entirely untrue; rather, the opposite is true: there are no examples of such cases and objectors are very responsible. In the Alpha coal case (2014) the land holders and conservation group exposed that the mining company had a lack of hard data on groundwater impacts. Public-spirited objectors went to Court and saved Ellison Reef (1967) from limestone mining and helped show the importance of protecting Fraser Island, now World Heritage Listed (1971).

- Clause 423 and 424

It is inappropriate to restrict matters that the Land Court can consider and give these powers, such as to consider the 'public interest', to the Minister. Decreasing judicial oversight, increasing ministerial powers and shutting out community participation has worrying implications for corruption.

- Clause 429

Removal of restricted land status when the miner is granted exclusive surface rights to access land removes one of the few rights of vulnerable landholders. No one should have the land surrounding their house destroyed by an open-cut mine yet this would be possible under this clause.

I call on the Committee to approach the proposed legislation with a view to empower, rather than disempower, our communities to take responsibility for our State. In Queensland for decades any person or group has been entitled to object to any mining proposal in open court, to have the evidence scrutinised about the benefits and detriments of a proposed mine. I request that you do not accept these changes but instead keep existing provisions that require public notification of all proposed mining projects and that allow any person or incorporated group to object to all mining leases and environmental authorities on all the existing grounds.

Consultation Process prior to the Bill reaching Parliament

Please ask Minister Cripps to provide exact figures on how many of the 176 submitters to the discussion paper opposed changes to existing objection rights and detailed examples of alleged cases of vexatious objections. According to EDO Qld, at least 106 submissions of a total of 176 submissions on the discussion paper, from both rural and urban submitters, opposed the changes. Yet Minister Cripps does not report this key fact in p47-48 of the explanatory notes.

Yours sincerely

Jackie Cooper

Point Lookout 4183