Dear Sirs

You obviously have never been forced to live next to an open cut coal mine as I have for the last 15 years of living next to New Hope at Acland

The people who are bought out are the lucky ones though at the time they may not think that The people left have to put up with noise, dust, water issues, ill health and stress are the ones who must not have their rights to object taken from them This is Queensland and we are supposed to live in a free state with freedom of speech and that should give anyone the right to speak out against wrongs If people want to support others who are badly done by this is their right

I personally don't think that governments actually listen to the people and that putting in submissions that are time wasting , frustrating and very stressful for no avail but I defend their rights to speak out .

Yours Sincerely

Meryl Plant
