

Carolyn Heffernan

From: Rex Beasley [REDACTED]
Sent: Tuesday, 7 August 2012 12:54 PM
To: Agriculture Resources and Environment Committee
Subject: Mines Legislation (Streamlining) Amendment Bill 2012

Submission comment on Agriculture, Resources & Environment Standing Order 131

I write you today in response to information I've received regarding the approval of mining applications in Queensland.

The industry needs more study and regulations not less.

Does the government mean to ignore the information coming from the Tara , Chinchilla Esate? People there are already suffering health issues from the gas wells operating closeby. Children , adults and animals , all with nose bleeds, headaches, skin rashes.

Does the government mean to ignore the worldwide information coming from other countries where mining has created devastation to the environment, sickness, death and birth defects in both humans and animals. Many of these countries have already banned the contraversial fracking method of gas extraction from the underground.

Does the government intend to ignore the scientific evidence from worldwide scientists, that mining is causing earthquakes and tremmors, fires and environmental degradation that can NEVER be reversed.

Think again Government of Queensland and Government of Australia before you remove guidelines and assessment of mining applications.

Rex J Beasley

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]