Submitter Comments:

I believe the current laws are draconian and follow the recent trend by the labour government throughout Australia to further restrict freedoms of the Australian people. With regard to firearms Australia already has some of the strictest requirements, the current changes suggested make no change to public safety, do nothing to reduce the risk of illicit firearms, and further cause undue further restriction to the general public whom enjoy the sport of shooting. I implore you to reconsider this action and not fall in line with people like Paul Papalia who believe they themselves are rightful dictators who will ignore evidence, create public unrest, and breach confidentiality at will. These are unjust law recommendations and those of you reading this feedback will be aware of that by this point. Please have the backbone to say no to these suggested changes.
