To whom it concerns. You've already done enough damage to the economy and people's lives by what you've done to this point under the guise of "managing" a health crisis. There is ample information in the public to show that "covid" can be safely managed (having a 99.97% survival rate) without the need for a singular, non elected official that gets to dictate everyone else's lives (including pushing on the public untested injections). Your ridiculous mandates have created enough division and harm on others (like me who've lost their jobs and are still without a income). That said...I'm not sure if any of you actually care enough or have any integrity to change your overly authoritarian ways.
