To whom it may concern

I am writing to express my objection to an extension of the emergency Covid-19 powers in Queensland.

I strongly believe the time has come where we need to return to a normal way of life and “live with” this virus. Vaccination rates have reached the Queensland Government’s benchmarks even though the goal posts have been shifted. Despite these rates and the segregation of those who have made the decision not to take the vaccine, the virus has continued to spread. Life, and the economy, must go on. It is past time for freedoms to be returned and I fear that will not be the case should the emergency powers be extended yet again.

Yours sincerely

Sharon Maxwell
