To whom it may concern,

Re: Stop the extension of the Emergency Bill.

As the world moves on and drops all covid mandates, with some countries now treating covid the same way they treat the flu, it's time for Australia to move on.

Prolonged fear is creating a mental health crisis we will be paying for in years to come.

For our children's sake, let's get back to normal. A segregated society is not one I will accept as a future for my children.

We have so many studies and data, we can safely move on as a state and let each individual decide what is right for themselves and their family.

Therefore there is no need to pass an extension of of the emergency bill.

Kind Regards,
