

To the Committee,

1. I reject any extensions to the Emergency Bill:

I reject any extensions to the Emergency Bill by the QLD Government in any form. I heard Yvette D'Ath call out a long list of legislation that will be modified in unknown ways during this process. I reject any and all of the proposed changes that would be used to assist in the process of extending the Emergency Bill. These emergency powers should never have been extended in the first place. There was never a need to extend them. I reject the notion of any further extension entirely and I speak on behalf of almost every Queenslanders. We are all peaceful, law abiding, tax paying and hard working good people and we don't need anyone in government extending the emergency bill. It could not be clearer that there is absolutely no sign of an emergency. The only emergency we have is dealing with the wreckage caused by your excessive wielding of the emergency powers. The psychological deterioration we have from the lockdowns, the lost years and damage to childhood education, all the suicides caused by lockdowns, broken families from the media using applied psychology, hypnotic droning loud speaker messaging for social conditioning, horrible amounts of deaths and injuries directly caused by the experimental substances you call 'vaccines' that should have been withdrawn at 50 deaths on precautionary principles alone, and the devastation and rubble of the economic damage that these emergency powers have caused on such a catastrophic level is barely comprehensible. It is nonsense if you say that we would have been worse off without all the public health measures of the experts. Not once have you provided your experts' data when requested. You cannot pass the buck up the line to experts no one can contact. You have to take ownership and admit it is you that is facilitating everything that is being done, you are as equally responsible as the experts you follow. And so far nothing has worked. See the paper "A literature review and meta-analysis of the effects of lockdowns on Covid-19 mortality" referenced below. This paper shows the restrictions made no difference at all worldwide, and if anything they made things worse. And read through the grey literature of that paper to see the true extent of how much research has been done to clarify this for people like you and me. We cannot effectively legislate anything meaningful if we ignore what is happening in the world, and that means we must go beyond the conflicted data and find unbiased independent information.

2. Why is local business industry collapsing:

It is absolute rubbish that businesses are nearly operating at full capacity again, just go for a walk in any local town or city. Start counting the empty shops on every street. The Queenslanders on the ground, the people really keeping this state running know, and all talk about the desolation everyday. Very few people are left in society that trust the news or the government. That is not the fault of the people. You in government, the media, and the banking system's handling of inflation, have devastated public trust. We watch the Australian life we all love flash before our eyes as if it has already died and you say that businesses are doing fine? The big corporate owned stores your emergency powers favour over the businesses of Queensland families have been allowed to stay open and run at close to full capacity from the start. While the small businesses more capable of managing sanitation have been forced to close under your emergency powers. How is that healthcare? You have destroyed these families. Why is it that I am hearing so many Queenslanders describe what we are witnessing as a type of fascist authoritarianism? Why is everyone saying this is not about healthcare? How is it that Covid-19 only hangs out in small and medium sized family owned businesses? Why are you any safer walking in large crowds of people in Woolworths and Bunnings? Is that not hypocrisy on public display for all Queenslanders? Could this be why people's trust in you is collapsing?

3. Why are there so many unanswered questions:

There are multiple things that support all these people's views and they want to know why the following obvious things are happening. There is the divisive singling out of small businesses for closure and restrictions, the ignoring of natural immunity, the ignoring of early treatments, the censoring of health professionals, under reporting of safety data, failure to release the contents of the Covid-19 'vaccines' to assist people to become informed before they can give real consent, failure to release the safety studies used to give the Covid-19 'vaccines' their emergency use authorisation, failure of the TGA to release FOI data showing independent tests on the quality of the Covid-19 'vaccines', no long term safety data for any Covid-19 'vaccines' is known and we hear with an impossible prophetic certainty that they are safe, failure to reduce the CT of PCR tests from the 40's to the correct range in the low 20's to prevent false positives, and not once mentioning any healthy habits for Australians to try during the pandemic. Long gone are the tv ads about eating five vegetables and two fruits a day and staying active and healthy. Where were all these healthy things when they were most needed when you were so preoccupied with emergency health measures? Is this why Queenslanders are saying healthcare was not your first priority? Why is it that most Queenslanders and Australians always say your priority is mainly focused on securing more powers and control and corporate deals. Is that not what you are desperately calling for now, you are stating that you must secure more powers for longer? Why would that be needed when multiple countries around the world have dropped, and are actively dropping every restriction because Covid-19 is no longer classed as a significant public health threat. In other words there is no emergency.

4. Why did we abandon tried and tested standards:

We could have followed nothing more than standard infection control procedures for seasonal respiratory viral infections throughout this whole 'pandemic' and been better off. There are many examples of countries that did just that and have the numbers to prove it. Just imagine if we had no media for a minute, so no one ever heard a mention of Covid-19, it is highly likely we would have had less sickness, less hospitalisations and less deaths than a fairly standard flu season and our lives would not have changed at all. The data is rolling in like a tidal wave from thousands of the most highly respected and sophisticated medical professionals and scientists from almost every country in the world stating that everything we have done with our emergency powers has made things much worse and we would have been far better off if we had just followed standard procedure and early treatment protocols. Why is it that there is a monumental stream of court cases going through in the highest levels of law worldwide right now surrounding the response and measures used to fight Covid-19? If everything was being done right, why are we seeing this happening?

5. Constant extensions are the same as them being permanent:

The fact that you are calling for an extension to such oppressive and damaging powers that completely undermine all forms of democracy as if these powers are just meant to be yours forever, can only bring up the thought of failed oppressive regimes, communism, authoritarianism and dictators. You've seen all the terrible movies and read the history, these are horrible ways of life that always end badly, especially for the people in power. The people that supported the regime change always get rejected in the end too. It is all there in our history to see, it is in the books and in movies to watch and see what we are headed towards with excessive use of centralised powers. It is not a good direction, there is no need for such oppression, society functions much better without it and life is more enjoyable for everyone, even people in government and big business. It is our values and democracy that have made us a peaceful and successful country, the Australian life you grew up with put you where you are today. The fact that you are amongst such an incredibly small group of people in QLD that feel it is an urgent matter to extend powers you should never have had for more than a couple of weeks, is more serious of an emergency for the state of democratic Australian life in QLD than Covid-19 itself. It's time to let these temporary powers go now, the emergency is well and truly over.

6. Societal collapse on your watch:

If people in government keep going down this slippery road, everything will collapse. You will hate it. You will not like the world you are helping lead us towards. A world with no private property, no freedom of movement, no free speech, no rights. Like a sort of Orwellian hell on Earth worse than the movie 1984. All the nice restaurants, busy markets, shopping centres, varieties of food products, choices of education, choices of entertainment, bodily choices, freedom of religion will be gone. We will walk down streets made of empty shops, stepping past the ruins of once bustling family owned businesses and restaurants. The only shops left will be a Woolworths, Coles or maybe a Bunnings. The big corporate businesses that your emergency powers gave a monopoly to during the 'pandemic' will be all that remains. It would be a claustrophobically restrictive micro managed boring world even for you members of government. Please have some foresight, you will hate it. Where would you go on the weekend, what would you do when it's all gone? A world with huge populations of broken unemployed people stuck at home on the dole will be the result. No one left to stimulate the economy because they have no work to earn money to spend because you favoured huge centralised corporations over family business, effectively crippling local innovation and the Australian domestic manufacturing industry. If these really are all just unintended consequences, now it has been brought to your attention it can hopefully be fixed. A repressed world is ahead if you keep trying to extend powers that don't belong in a democratic society, certainly not in Australia. The people will be leaving Australia in boats soon, deciding it's not worth living here anymore. The world has functioned very efficiently with basically no restrictions for the last 120yrs, in fact it seems that the problems only get worse the more restricted we get. You can still rebuild a good reputation in government by listening to the people who put you there. We can still have the Australian way of life if we can get actual competition watchdogs back on line to reign in corporate monopolies and unfair business activities. We can control inflation if we re-regulate the banking industry and back our money with gold in a full-reserve based currency. Australian life, democracy, manufacturing, education, free markets, and healthcare is still salvageable with good governance. The first thing you can do is everything you can to stop the extension of the Emergency Bill. And start removing all the implemented Covid-19 restrictions in all there forms, remove all QR tracking and tracing and remove all covid public messaging.

I could be right or wrong above, it comes down to why does everyone you speak with have so many unanswered questions? Consider my personal thoughts and opinions and take note that the main point of my email is that I fully reject any extension of the emergency bill in any form. I fully call for, and support all parties involved in the lifting of all restrictions and mandates immediately. I want all health responses are to be dealt with by the people of Australia, I don't support these responses being outsourced to external agencies in the future, I don't support the signing away of constitution during any global pandemics should they occur in the future without a national vote by the Australian people. The emergency is well and truly over and we can put it all behind us and start fixing the mess 'Covid-19' has created.

Kind regards,

Sam Barrett
