

Queensland Parliamentary Committee,

My name is Jennifer Young and I am a parent and teacher who lives in Far North Queensland. I have worked in FNQ for the past 7 years as a teacher. I am not currently working due to the current health mandates being imposed by our chief health officer. The reason being is that no-one can tell me what I put in my body. It is lawless to have a health officer that believes he has this much power to dictate such a notion.

The current draconian mandate should never have been introduced. It has created nothing but a two-tiered society, left our highly educated and skilled people jobless and seen the closing of too many small businesses.

The purpose of my email is to let you know that I Jennifer Young DO NOT want the Extension of the Emergency Bill, until the 31st October, 2022 to be approved.

Our current government have created nothing but a fear-based narrative that has seen us living in a 'State of Emergency' for 2 years. These powers have made it legal to say that qualified citizens are not allowed to work unless they allow themselves to be injected with a trial-based vaccination. The data that continues to come out on the side-effects is astounding and yet still our chief health officer and premier say it is a requirement in order to keep your job.

As of today, there has been no evidence to suggest that getting one or numerous covid vaccinations work, as ABS data highlights that even if you have the vaccination, you are still able to contract and gift covid to others. Further, the TGA has refused to legally inform the Australian citizens of the astronomical long-term side-effects of the medical trial vaccinations. This is also the case with our doctors not informing Australian citizens of ALL the possible side-effects, due to them being legally gagged.

Please do not give permission for the current chief health officer to extend the current emergency bill until the 31st October.

Name: Jennifer Young
