Subject: Submission - Public Health and Other Legislation (Extension of Expiring Provisions) Amendment Bill 2022

To whom it may concern,

I formally and strongly object to the Public Health and Other Legislation (Extension of Expiring Provisions) Amendment Bill 2022.

For the last two years, Queensland has become a police state, and citizens have been vilified for questioning any decisions the government has made. We have had enough. It is time for the government to cease and desist overstepping into our lives and remember you serve the people, not the other way around.

- Science is supposed to be about asking questions and finding answers. Medical professionals who question the government's narrative over Coronavirus and treatments have been demonised. Many have lost their jobs because they believe in patient-centred care. My mother in law, a nursing veteran of 41 years, is one of them.
- Other countries, including Sweden have the least stringent government control measures and a significantly lower death rate
- Other countries, like the UK have rolled back mandates. Get with the times, Queensland. We've had enough.
- The government has lied about how life will change with the vaccination rates.

The attempt to extend the Bill is nothing more than a blatant attempt to continue absolute power and make Queensland a nanny state. dribbling back as few freedoms as possible over the longest period of time.

I reject the Bill and the extension to the state of emergency. It is not needed now, and has set a dangerous precedent where free will and human rights are ignored in favour of "experts" who have been proven wrong on more than one occasion.
