Submission to Committee Inquiry (dated 3 March, 2022)

I wish to state that I do not support the further extension of the operation of essential public health measures implemented to facilitate Queensland's response to the COVID-19 pandemic (Public Health and Other Legislation (Extension of Expiring Provisions) Amendment Bill 2022) past the expiry date of 30 April 2022.

- The Covid pandemic is near it's end and emergency powers do not still need to be in place
- The emergency powers have put small businesses out of business due to decisions that have effected how and when a business may run
- Staffing needs to be able to be back to normal so workers can return to work as normal and not be mandated away from their workplace – this effects both businesses and workers
- Life needs to get back to normal now the pandemic is near it's end and we do not need another 6 months of it to drag on

Regards,

Alison McCormick
