The more universally accessible education is the better for not only students but the broader community. It's crucial with youth crime in Queensland getting more and more attention, that the QLD government increase state education funding to help support children when they are their most vulnerable and when they have the most potential. Without this increase in funding, the training programs will forever be dealing with students who have sub-par capacity and are accessing the programs much later than they otherwise would be. Make Queensland a leader in state public education. Ensure that parents do not need to choose a private school to get the best education that their child needs. Ensure that children whose parents don't have the financial choice of a private school are not disadvantaged for life due to less funding at their state school. Make this change now. Be the Education state, invest in our state schools and reduce youth crime.
