QUESTION:

The Committee ASKED NIAA for data on course completions of apprenticeship programs in Queensland.

ANSWER:

The following information has been provided by the Australian Government Department of Employment and Workplace Relations.

What is an Australian Apprenticeship?

The term 'Australian Apprenticeships' covers both apprenticeships and traineeships.

Australian Apprenticeships combine a formal qualification with paid employment. They are available in a variety of Vocational Education and Training (VET) qualification levels. There are many occupations available in a range of industries. An apprenticeship or traineeship can be full-time, part-time or school-based.

The apprentice and employer enter into a training contract which outlines the apprentice's and employer's obligations, including supervision and working hours. The training contract is administered by an Australian Apprenticeship Support Network (AAS provider) and approved by State training authorities. A registered training organisation (RTO) delivers the formal (off-the-job) component of training, conducts assessment and issues the qualification. The apprentice, employers and RTO must agree to a training plan setting out the details of how an apprentice will complete their qualification – including the units they will study, mode of delivery.

The detail below provides a breakdown of key data which includes:

- In-training - a point in time count of apprentices and trainees part way through their apprenticeship or traineeship which could take from 18 months to 4 years to complete depending on the qualification, or if trade or non-trade.
- Commencement - apprentices and trainees who have started over a particular time period for example over a calendar year.

- Completion numbers - apprentices and trainees who completed in a particular period for example over a calendar year noting they will have started at a point in time in the previous 4 or 5 years depending on their qualification.

Data provided from the National Centre of Vocational Education Research (NCVER) on apprentices and trainees in Queensland by Indigenous status, including total numbers and numbers for regional and remote workplaces.

QUESTION ON NOTICE

No.3

asked on 30 August 2022

QUESTION:

The Committee ASKED NIAA for mapping of telecommunications connectivity in Queensland, particularly remote Queensland communities and shortfalls impacting Vocational Education and Training delivery in Queensland.

ANSWER:

The NIAA has engaged with the Australian Government Department of Infrastructure, Transport, Regional Development, Communications and the Arts (DITRDCA) and the Queensland Government Department of Communities, Housing and Digital Economy (DCHDE) regarding information on telecommunications connectivity limitations in Queensland.

- DITRDCA have provided the attached Excel document which identifies mobile phone network coverage in discrete First Nations communities in Queensland (Attachment A). Also provided is a map showing National Broadband Network (NBN) coverage compared with location of First Nations communities (Attachment B). Communities outside of NBN fixed line and fixed wireless networks have access to the NBN via the Sky Muster satellite service.
- DCHDE have provided the attached list of locations which are known to be experiencing challenges with network digital connectivity in Queensland (Attachment C). This data is based on an assessment of connectivity challenges being experienced by public schools in each location. This includes locations across much of regional and remote Queensland.

No.4

asked on 30 August 2022

QUESTION:

The Committee ASKED NIAA what support is available for high needs students.

ANSWER:

The NIAA invests in a wide range of activities to support First Nations children and students through Indigenous Advancement Strategy Children and School program and the Higher Education Support Act 2003. This includes First Nations children and students who are more likely to experience marginalisation and disadvantage due to socio-economic and geographical circumstances, and the ongoing effects of historic dispossession and intergenerational trauma. Some examples include:

- the Remote School Attendance Strategy that operates in 14 remote or very remote schools in Queensland, targeting approximately 2,790 enrolled First Nations students to overcome the barriers and challenges that inhibits school attendance;
- support to eight universities in Queensland through the Indigenous Student Success Program which provides funding to universities to support (in Queensland) around 5,700 First Nations students entering and completing study. The universities use this support to provide scholarships, tutorial assistance, mentoring and other appropriate cultural support;
- AFL Cape York House, NRL Cowboys House and Cape York Partnership's Girl Academy to support First Nations school students from remote areas through boarding and residential support;
- Yalari, Cape York Institute and Townsville Catholic Education Office that provide scholarships for First Nations school students;
- Brisbane Broncos, JT Academy and Cairns Hockey for mentoring and academy projects; and
- Yuku-Baja-Muliku Landowner and Reserves Limited for a junior ranger project.

The Healing Foundation is also funded by the NIAA to continue its work to support Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people with their healing. They have specific projects relating to intergenerational healing, children and have partnered with the Queensland Mental Health Commission regarding the Queensland Healing Strategy.
