To the Education Minister

Subject: Opposition to proposed legislation changes for home education I am writing in regards to the proposed changes to the home education legislation. I chose to put my children through mainstream education simply because that is the done thing, however my daughter has chosen to homeschool her children after years of mainstream school with her oldest. Where he never fit in, was never good enough and learnt simply that he was dumb. Since homeschooling he has been able to explore his interests, express himself and go above and beyond anything he could achieve at school. Children's education should remain in the hands of their parents who innately have their children's best interests at heart. I do not agree with handing over the power to the government or government parties. I hope to see this proposed legislation reviewed and removed. Sincerely Leanne Tooley
