As a registered teacher in Qld State Schools who has elected to homeschool my own children, I can emphatically say that forcing Homeschoolers to follow the National Curriculum is a mistake. I chose to homeschool my children because I wanted them to be able to delve deeply into topics personally interesting to them, to have well-rounded world views and content knowledge, to progress as quickly or as slowly as their abilities allowed. The National Curriculum will inhibit our ability to do this. If the Curriculum worked for everyone, so many families would not be leaving the system. Home-schooling families thrive outside of the system. One size does not fit all. We are invested, caring, intelligent parents and we know what we're doing with our children. You can focus on improving the education system and we will focus on educating OUR children. Homeschoolers do not support your bill.
