Hi my name is [REDACTED] I have been home schooling for four years now. I am almost nine. I have heard that kids who home school will have to learn the same things as the kids at school do. I think it will be too stressful for me and other people because parent's aren't showed how to teach it. It is going to be a lot of work for all of us plus some kids will cry like I did when I was younger. It will be very hard for many kids with adhd and autism because they have different brains like me. I have adhd and I struggle with going to school. So I am disagreeing with you changing the law and I hope the rule's stay the way they are. I love to home school the way it is because I get to learn many things the way my brain likes to work. Please keep the law the same. Sincerely, [REDACTED]
