Home schooling needs to be regulated more. I personally know people who don't teach their children anything...they let them do whatever they want everyday. Then when the children's work needs to be handed in the parents do the work not the children. The government needs to send out an assessor to test the children's progress. I personally believe children should go to school as they need that time away from home, need structure and discipline for when they enter the workforce. They need to make friends and learn social skills. Have the opportunity to make friends from all different nationalities. Doing home schooling during covid was a good but not any more if it's not regulated properly.
