Dear Committee members

I'm a homeschooler who's [REDACTED]. I love homeschooling because it allows me to follow my interests, which keeps me engaged and loving learning. I don't want to be made to follow a curriculum by somebody who doesn't know or understand me. My mum puts together a learning program especially for me. I love writing fiction stories, songs as well as singing them. I love reading. Like, A LOT. We go to the library every week and my mum is always finding new books to read. I find them too! As well as my love for English, I've also been learning about money, through setting up my own little business making and selling jewellery.

We need to have choices in life, and what suits one child, may not suit another. Please don't make everyone do the same thing, it will impact a lot of children's lives that are happy the way they are. My family really cares about my education, and make sure that I also get to make choices about it. Now I know you can just say 'This is what you're doing and you have to stick to it,' But please listen to our voices.

Yours Faithfully,

[REDACTED]
