Hello thereAs a parent myself I can relate to this new bill being proposed. We as parents aren't sure yet if, we are going to homeschool our child. It should be up to us to determine whats best for our child. Making it harder and more cumbersome to homeschool, is in no ones best interest. What can be learned at home, being homeschooled in 8 hours, will typically take a week in public school. The curriculum or learning style can easier be suited to the individual child at home.I wish for it to continue to be of free choice, and not being made more cumbersome than necessary.
