

Education (General Provisions) and Other Legislation Amendment Bill 2024

Submission No: 997
Submitted by: Mara Jones
Publication:
Attachments:
Submitter Comments:

From: [REDACTED]
To: Education, Employment, Training and Skills Committee
Subject: Objections to education bill 2024
Date: Thursday, 21 March 2024 4:45:07 PM

---

To the Committee,

I seriously object to the proposals in the education bill 2024.

Home educators - teach their kids from home for many reasons - both my kids have learning disabilities. They have better care and attention to education with me than in an over crowded classroom where they get left behind and can't catch up. We work at their pace, at their level and we make progress.

The proposals in this bill are unnecessary, making it harder for a parent than it is for a teacher. All the extra reporting for a parent who's teaching than a teacher in a school is ridiculous.

The Heu already is stretched to handle the reporting load as it is. And the bill wants to add many more. If the reports go unseen then what is the point in making us report more?

The Aus curriculum is a joke. It's outdated. And one size does not fit all.

We teach our kids things that pertain to them, interest them and things they want to learn about. We work out how best to engage them in learning. If it takes longer for something to be learned, then we keep at it until it's learned.

Home educating means our kids don't get left behind, making us adhere to the Aus curriculum doesn't allow for us to cater to learning needs and abilities.

Leave our home educating system alone.

Mara Jones
[REDACTED]

Get Outlook for iOS