It has been brought to my attention that Parliament are pushing bill to change the rights of parents to be taken away to decide and determine how their children receive an education in Australia and the rights to education in homeschooling to be taken away as an option. After seeing the statistics of homeschooling have increased since 2019 by 300%. I believe after speaking with my children and teachers both feel that the School curriculum is failing our children as the government's educational sector is over due for an overhaul and the education sector is outdated, Governments are pushing an agenda in schools that don't align with what children want, so as a parent with our children interests at heart I believe it's our given right as parents to be able to choose homeschooling is right for our children is our responsibility and choice not to be determined by the government choose for us If the rise in homeschooling has risen substantially over the last few years I believe the government should look at why parents have chosen this choice not to take the choice away from us but to maybe improve their system. Australia is a free country and the right as a parent is to be able to choose different methods of learning for our children. So I urge parliament to drop the bill and leave what is working in homeschooling alone, with a shortage of teachers I think homeschooling is the way to go and to control what our children are being taught.
