Submitter Comments:

My godson was seriously bullied and significantly let down by the education system both public and private until mid last year. At the time he was removed and homeschooled he was in second grade and couldn't read, write or count. Since being homeschooled he has made significant improvement. Forcing a focus on Acaara would have been detrimental as without the foundational abilities mentioned other subject matter would have been lost on him while these foundations would have had less attention. While it is an excellent GUIDE forcing Acaara onto parents of children such as my godson is likely to have negative consequences in many cases.
