To whom it may concern, I am writing this today in strong objection to the proposed changes to homeschooling in Queensland. I have been a homeschooling parent for nine years and it has been positively life changing for not only my child but our family. The current structure and requirements of the Queensland Education Department has been beneficial for us in our learning and teachings.

My child is thriving and able to learn valuable life lessons as well as receive a high quality education from the way we are able to do this with the current requirements. We cannot urge anymore to please leave the homeschooling system the way it is, to allow our children to thrive and grow the way children should. As an early childhood teacher, not only my child, but all of those around us, are showing incredible real life skills as well as common sense and a very clear understanding of all areas of development. The variety of learning opportunities is one that they would never receive if it wasn't for the time that homeschooling offers. Thank you for your time and I hope this highlights just how much the current homeschooling requirements are enriching my child's life. Kind regards

Kate Bower
