Hi My name is [REDACTED] and I am writing this to you today to object the changes wanting to be made with homeschooling requirements in Queensland. I went to school for prep and grade one and then started homeschooling in grade two. It was really great to join all of the local homeschool groups and make so many new friends and even different ages to me. I started new groups I didn't even know existed which was amazing for me. I am now in year ten and I want to be a vet. I have learnt so much already as my parents have taken me to lots of riding camps and take me to lessons a couple of times a week. I've made best friends in a few of the homeschooling groups I am part of. One of my favourite things has been trying a really wide range of experiences and being able to see what really lights me up. I am currently travelling around Australia with my parents while my dad is on long service leave. I have learnt even more on the road travelling around to different states and places. I really hope I can continue to learn this way as I have loved the way my parents have been teaching me and letting me grow. Thank you very much for your time. Kind regards [REDACTED]
