

Education (General Provisions) and Other Legislation Amendment Bill 2024

Submission No: 1449
Submitted by: Patricia Leiman
Publication: Making the submission and your name public
Attachments: No attachment

Submitter Comments:

In the right environment of love and understanding a child will flourish. What better place for a child to flourish than with its parents and siblings. Parents train children in speech, behaviour, manners etc.. with love and genuine care because they want their children to succeed and be accepted in society. Sometimes this requires keeping them at home longer and schooling them at home till they are ready and confident to embrace life alone outside the home. Each child is different and matures at varying stages. This is particularly applicable where rural families have to send children to boarding school. An option to homeschool should be permissible and acceptable and parents decisions respected in this regard.