Dear Committee Members, I am a homeschool student who is writing to ask you to please not allow these legislative changes to take place. My name is [REDACTED]. I love being homeschooled; I love it because I have the freedom to learn what I want. (I, of course, have to learn things like English and maths whether I like it or not, but that does not bother me cause I like school and I love learning). When I grow up I want to be an ornithologist and an author, so I need to be able to learn lots about birds. Because I am homeschooled I can learn lots about birds and can achieve my goal. I am not the biggest fan with math. I used to not like math, but my mom changed my math book and now I don't mind it. But if you allow these legislative changes to take place I won't be able to use my new math book and enjoy math and I will lose my love for learning. So please don't allow these legislative changes to take place. Thank you for reading my letter and caring about homeschooling. Love [REDACTED]
