As a parent and a citizen of a western country I believe there are boundaries when it comes to government influence over ones children. The proposed influence over home education seems to be driven by a desire to curb the uptake of homeschooling after a woeful handling of covid and schooling thereafter. The 2SLGBTQIA+ influence on curriculum is also a cause for concern, as a supposedly "free people" a parents ability to abstain their family from such cultural influence should be respected and has been up to this point. Good ideas don't require force. James Parkinson.
