To Whom it May Concern

I wish to add my voice to to many others who see homeschooling as a valid need for their children rather than attending school.

There are many reasons parents choose to do this and they should have the right to do so. After all, it is their children.

Some further notes:

Parents should be able to choose a curriculum that works for their child. The National Curriculum is designed for large classrooms of children, not for a personalized teaching environment.

The current registration and reporting system are working well, there is no need to change it.

Instead of making things more prescriptive for homeschooling families, perhaps the Government should review the school system and find out why so many students are leaving it.

With respect,
