I think that is it wrong for you to demand a certain countries educational system to be held as the platform from which homeschoolers must follow. We are an international family, we have lived in Australia, NZ and USA while homeschooling and I don't think it's very inclusive to make all homeschoolers follow one nation's system! There are other countries curriculums that should be considered if you plan on enforcing them! Stop trying to control the people! We are world schooling and we will not be left in the shadows learning only what's important to Australia!
