I don't have time to do a detailed submission but I do want to convey my SUPPORT for a rethink about this notion of 'net zero' and reducing carbon from our atmosphere. 'Net zero' is a foreign, globalist construct that is destroying any country conned into implementing it. It is purely and simply "foreign influence" which the governments in this country say they abhor and yet lay out the 'red carpet' for any and all foreign influence. Carbon is essential to life on earth and if the government was convinced that lowering carbon emissions was worthwhile, it should be incorporating nuclear into its energy mix. The current focus on renewables will not only bankrupt this country and jeopardise baseload power availability, it will not make ANY difference to global pollution levels. The other aspect if you wish to lower carbon levels is to stop the rampant clearing happening in Qld and start pushing more vegetation restoration projects. It is admirable that Qld government is giving serious thought to going against the "mob rule" mentality that has taken over our country when it comes to destroying the environment to put up inconsequential renewables that will cost the environment, cost Australians and yet contribute next to nothing to the ever-increasing demands on electricity. Thank you for reading my opinion.
