

Residential Tenancies and Rooming Accommodation and Other Legislation Amendment Bill 2024

Submission No: 10
Submitted by: Stephen Strachan
Publication:
Attachments:
Submitter Comments:

From: [REDACTED]
To: Housing, Big Build and Manufacturing Committee
Subject: Changes to rental laws
Date: Friday, 5 April 2024 4:50:01 PM
Attachments: image001.jpg

I am a landlord and I provide housing. Australia's government has allowed 1 million people to arrive and stay in Australia in 2023 with no plan for additional housing. Now we have a housing crisis. Surprise surprise! I am sick of being used as a punching bag by useless politicians who create laws to interfere in the market and reduce the supply of housing. Why should I bother to put my savings into property to provide housing when I can get much better returns on the stock market? Pass these laws and I will no longer supply housing for other people.

Stephen Strachan
Senior Engineer

EQ LOGO

[REDACTED] <http://www.engqld.com.au>

This email message and enclosures is from Engineers Queensland and is intended solely for the named addressee(s). If you are not the intended recipient, you are notified that any review, use, disclosure, copying, distribution, or publication of the information contained in the email is prohibited. If you have received this email in error, please advise the sender immediately and delete the document. Internet communications are not secure and accordingly Engineers Queensland does not accept any legal liability for the contents of his message. Our system is equipped with the most recent virus scanners. However, please note that no warranty is made that this material is free from computer or other defect. Neither Engineers Queensland nor the sender accepts responsibility for any loss/damage incurred by receipt of electronic mail (including enclosures). Engineers Queensland entire liability will be limited to re-supplying the material.