To whom it may concern,

I write regarding the request for feedback submission on the government's response to COVID-19.

I am a medical research scientist and have an undergraduate background in virology.

I would like to commend the government's response. I found information to be plentiful, able to be understood by lay people (my aging parents and my children had a good grasp of the situation) and guidelines easy to implement.

I read that pandemic preparedness will look like an over-reaction. I hope we achieved this.
