

From: Louise
To: Health, Communities, Disability Services and Domestic and Family Violence Prevention Committee
Subject: Abortion Bill
Date: Tuesday, 28 August 2018 1:50:24 PM

To whom it may Concern

I have an eight year old son who was born with complex cardiac issues. At 20 weeks I was made aware of his potential conditions. He just competed in the Ingham Tennis JDS Tennis Tournament and won his division even though he was competing against children who were 12 years old. The statement from Dr. Nunn when Luke was being assessed for intervention was that he believed he was a viable candidate and would go on to be a competent tax paying citizen. At the time I was shocked by that marxist-like statement but put that to the Queensland State Labour Government now on the eve of this shocking law reform. These potential tax payers are being needlessly aborted because of the a lack of understanding of the following:

- Full decriminalisation of abortion would mean abortion would be legal in Queensland for any reason at all, effectively until the moment of birth. Yet only 6% of Queenslanders support this extreme position, according to a YouGov Galaxy Research poll commissioned by cherish Life Queensland and the Australian Family Association in August 2018.
- The existing Queensland law against abortion has a vital educative role. It instructs society as to the seriousness of the act of abortion, while the removal from the criminal law of any references to abortion would tell society that this form of intentional killing is morally trivial.
- Decriminalisation inevitably would increase the number of abortions - which 87% of Australians already think is too high, according to a Sexton Marketing Group opinion poll in May 2005.
- More abortions would hurt more women. With every abortion, the toll is one dead, one wounded. Seventy-six percent of Queenslanders believe that abortion can harm the physical and/or mental health of women. There is overwhelming evidence about the serious physical and emotional effects of abortion on women, and as a consequence, on their families. Physical risks include infection, haemorrhage, infertility and breast cancer. Psychological risks include depression and other mental illness, suicide, attempted suicide, drug and alcohol abuse, sexual promiscuity and general poor self-esteem.
- The only changes to the law which should be considered are safeguards for women. According to a YouGov Galaxy poll in August 2018, 88% of Queenslanders want women considering abortion to receive free independent counselling, and 85% want the woman to receive information on the development of the unborn baby, the nature of the procedure, the physical and psychological risks of the operation and the alternatives of keeping the baby or adoption, so they can make a fully informed decision. A cooling-off period of several days between making an appointment to have an abortion and the actual procedure is supported by 79% of Queenslanders. And 65% of Queenslanders believe that parental consent to abortion should normally be required for girls under the age of 16.

Louise de Jersey
Practice Manager

|

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

|

[REDACTED]