Yes Murder, that is the correct name for termination of human life.
You are not an elected body. You are faceless people being used to put legitimacy on Government sponsored MURDER.

If it has a heartbeat it is a living being - even in the womb.

In the majority of cases it is not a health issue, it is pure convenience.

The health issues arise later in terms of guilt and other mental anguish on those who have had terminations

Medical research would indicate that aborting the baby causes other medical issues later in life for the mothers whose body cycle and function has been disrupted.

Our government will not only condone murder but protect the butchers who are lining their pockets from this immoral behaviour.

As you are no doubt aware, same sex marriage came into being as a result of a 60% yes vote in the plebiscite. Over 60% of Queenslanders surveyed in a recent mygov pole were against ANY CHANGE to Queensland abortion laws. Surely this is an equally valid result and should be treated with the same respect.

Any change or legitimisation of this murderous behavior will put further strain on an already stressed public hospital system.

No genuine caring medical professional should be forced to take any part in aiding or referring against their conscience. Let the persons wanting termination find a butcher for themselves.

Go on line and see for yourselves the 'results' of these terminations. If any one of us was to treat an animal in similar manner, I am sure we could look forward to a lengthy custodial sentence and an endless screaming crusade from the media.

Abortion, murder, (or in its sanitised form termination) is total wrong in a civilised society.

NO CHANGES ARE NEED TO QUEENSLAND ABORTION LAWS
