Sirs

I am appalled that members of the Queensland parliament can think of introducing this 'killer' bill under the guise of 'health'. Is it healthy to carry out the cowardly murder of so many innocents who would otherwise have had the opportunity to contribute to a strong, and truly healthy, happy Queensland population.

It is beyond me to understand the mentality of such people who would deliberately ready the stage for mass murder. If the children involved were alive - as they have every right to be - would those murders still be done under the pretext of 'good health'?

Please stop and think of the vice the Parliament seems to be so anxious to carry out, murder

Do you really love our country?

Sincerely

Joan Gilmartin
