To whom it may concern

I disagree with the new Termination of Pregnancy Bill 2018 and urge you to reconsider passing it. Surely it is unethical to be legal to terminate a baby beyond 22 weeks of gestation for trivial reasons, such as gender, inconvenience, financial issues etc. There must be other more moral options, such as making adoption more accessible - especially, these days when infertility is so common and couples often long for a child of their own. Babies are innocent and helpless and don't have a voice of their own. We should be protecting them from harm, not destroying them. I know of several women who have never forgiven themselves for aborting their own children. So effectively, abortion destroys not only the baby, but has a negative effect on the mother too.

Please do what you can to stop this Bill being passed. We don't want this legislation in Queensland.

Yours sincerely

Lisa Burr
