I understand that we hear in the news and celebrate the fact of babies born prematurely at 26 weeks or less and surviving and yet here in this proposed bill, which in jackie Trads own words on the TV News will "bring us into the 21 century" seeks to legalise the killing of babies even up to full term.

Child protection is a big deal these days, all sorts of laws and organisations are brought into play in the interests of protecting children and yet the Government seeks to bring in laws that go against any protection for the unborn. What is the mantra for such violence against these young ones -- Womens rights!!!!

Over the centuries , women have died trying to protect their children, The romans were seen as barbaric for cutting open pregnant womens wombs and killing the child, yet this bill proposes just such violence in the name of womens rights? They should be disgusted with themselves.

Children unborn or otherwise should not be exposed to or be threatened by laws that legalise harm to them, they should be celebrated for what they are--
