To whom it may concern

I am writing with regard to the bill being tabled by Jackie Trad that aims to change Queensland's abortion laws.

I am urging you not to make any changes. Life begins at conception, and unborn babies must be protected, and it is well-documented that abortions have severe negative impacts on women's mental and physical health and also affect others such as the fathers. While there may be grounds in rare medical circumstances to consider an abortion, surely better access to counseling and adoption services would be best in the vast majority of cases.
