Hello, I'm writing about the new law about late term abortion's. I will not support this so called law. It's doesn't recognise the babies right's or in the long term help the mental health of either baby nor the mother. There are so many desperate parent's out there that are desperate for children, if anything should be past it's better adoption laws for these people, not the careless termination of innocent lives. And the thought of 27 babies being aborttd and left to die is terrible doctors have a duty of care for all humans, it seems to me that in this world there's a rule for one and not another. If an unborn baby dies in a car crash there's an outpouring of grief for the unborn child yet these people have the right to let these innocent one's die. Makes no sense. It's just plain wrong.
