I think this change in the law will be harmful to all concerned.
We are talking about human rights. What about the right of the little unborn child, are they not deemed to be human. I once was one of these unborn humans just like you yourself were. How can we justify killing these babies just because someone finds it inconvenient to have them, that it might interrupt their lives.
These little lives go through pain as they are ripped from their mummies wombs.
I can't believe that we live in a society that sees that killing little babies is acceptable. If I was to have a baby and then decide that it was inconvenient and to kill it, I will be had up for murder or manslaughter, what is the difference between this and killing babies in the womb!!!!

Kind regards
