

From: [REDACTED]
To: abortionlawreform
Subject: Abortion Law Reform (Woman's Right to Choose) Amendment Bill 2016
Date: Saturday, 25 June 2016 4:30:54 PM

---

Dear Committee Members,

I wish to submit to the Committee that any abortion of an unborn child, besides being a death sentence to a defenceless baby by a fully grown person, is dangerous to the health, maybe physical but surely emotional, of the mother, even after many years. Should any person have the right to terminate the life of another person?

Many are against capital punishment even for a wilful murderer. Why should capital punishment be inflicted on a defenceless child when it has not committed any murder?

To leave a baby who survived the abortion to die by neglect when other babies of the same age have survived with care, is a most horrible death for the child, and a horrible act by the perpetrators.

These events, as all abortions, will leave the persons taking part, hardened to suffering or, when they realise the impact of what they have done, despair. When one is hardened, that one will very likely go on to greater deeds of the same kind. We only have to read history to know that, or just be an observer of the behaviour of human beings.

What about health workers who do not want to take part in the killing of this defenceless little person, will they be allowed to refuse without repercussions?

Please do not remove Abortion from the Queensland Criminal Code.

I desire to defend all babies in the womb, supposedly the safest place for them, and to cease all abortions, except in the most extreme circumstances with regard to the health of the mother and with her approval.

Thank you for reading this submission.

Beverley Pearce
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]