I support Rob Pyne's bill.

I believe it will make termination of pregnancies a much less stressful procedure for both patient and doctor. This procedure has proven social and environmental benefits, and deserves to be delivered from its currently ambiguous legal status.

The legal prosecution and social persecution involved in abortion is relic of a societal norm which has since faded into obscurity. The law needs to reflect this change and Mr Pyne's bill achieves this.

Obviously care needs to be taken regarding the placing of a threshold for when a pregnancy is too advanced to be terminated. I understand that this issue is represented in this bill. Despite this omission, I support the bill. I hope that in the future a realistic gestation threshold will be set, based primarily on the available scientific literature and the referrals of experienced doctors.

Warm regards,
