

From: Stewart Beveridge
To: abortionlawreform
Subject: Abortion. Or killing the unborn infant.
Date: Wednesday, 20 July 2016 8:11:37 PM

---

The unborn child is the potential for the next generation. Anyone who has seen video of the Child in the Womb would realise that it is not a blob of jelly floating in liquid but a potential of actual living person. The studies done to show that babies mental development can be influenced by listening to music demonstrates that it is not an inert object who does not exist until after the first breath and then magically becomes a person. To kill this after the first breath is Infanticide which is Murder by another name. Is it any less murder when the individual is all but put into a different category of being able to be killed just before the first gasp? Don't leave the decision to the pregnant woman who may be suffering enough anxiety with the pending arrival and might not be thinking rationally or logically. There are plenty of good potential adoptive or fostering couples available in Australia trying for a child to extent of adopting from overseas that out own are killed prematurely. In Parliament, your vote will not only be counted but eventually the decision will be called account.

E Stewart Beveridge.

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]