Hi,

I am a young mother who recently changed her opinion on abortion following in depth discussion and research where I finally realised it is the killing of another human being. There is no getting around that, despite any unfortunate circumstances. I am very sorry for women in difficult situations but the child they carry is still another life. As a result, keeping abortion as a criminal act seems justified and it would be a shame to change the laws, especially with some states allowing the killing of an unborn child up to 9 months. Please consider this fact in making any changes to the law.

Kind regards
