1. Sympathy for those "caught out" by an unwanted pregnancy is misplaced when information on sex is so wide spread. And hard cases make bad laws.
2. It is ironic that , as a community, we feel more revulsion for those who maltreat animals than we do for those who crush the heads of pre-born human children. We are in "clear and present danger" of losing our own humanity.
3. Abortion is the deliberate killing of an unborn human being. Since contraception is so readily available, there should surely be no question of unwanted pregnancies, unless a lamentable lack of self-control results in unprepared, casual sex. In which case, be an adult and accept the consequences.
4. Or give the child in adoption to parents who will love and care for it.
5. Abortion is murder. Murder is a crime.
