Subject: Changes to Abortion Status in QLD

Dear Sir/Madam

I am extremely concerned that there are pending changes to the current abortion laws. There is much comment on the right of a woman to have choice over her body when choosing (or not) to have an abortion, but there are three people involved in this, not just the woman. No matter what the stage gestation, a baby is still a baby once conception has occurred, and how can the state, let alone society, condone the killing of this little one because it is an inconvenience. If a baby is killed once it is born, there is a murder inquiry. What is the difference ?

I strongly condemn any changes that would allow the killing of unborn babies. It is morally and ethically wrong

Yours sincerely

Jill Patrick
