Dear committee,

Please re-consider that this Bill is all about killing Australian babies at their weakest and that we Australians kill approximately 100,000 of them each year, many in the southern states and this is done regardless of the babies right to living among us and that most of us still consider that murder should be treated as a major crime.

Sadly many mothers or would-be mothers regret their actions in later life which impacts on their mental and physical health such that they would dearly love to have been counselled at the time of the killing of their child. There is also a dearth of babies available for adoption in Australia such that there are many would-be parents more than willing to care for the children being killed by abortion. Please do your best for the children of Queensland.

Yours Michael Renehan
