> Dear Hon Shannon Fentiman and the Research Director,
> It has come to my notice that you are calling for submissions regarding the above.
> I would like to submit that the possibility of couples being able to adopt children is already very scarce.
Having a mother and father provides the children being adopted with an environment which for so many years has been the accepted relationship as a married couple being a man and woman being married to each other.
> This society is changing so much with a push from men wanting to marry men and women wanting to marry women. It is very much a case of those who make the most noise are the ones who get what they want. I see it in society all the time.
> People who do not have an axe to grind are the silent majority. They do not need to make a noise and push for changes. One does not have to push and make a loud noise and be intimidating when the normal way of life is upheld.
> What right does a homosexual couple have to adopt a child when the natural order of life is that a man and a woman pro-create and that a child is placed in this environment. Take a female animal and a male animal in pro-creation. This is the normal way of things.
> In the bible, it is stated that a man is to marry a woman. This way of life has stood the test of time. What is happening in society that changes are being pushed through?
> Everywhere now we hear the media calling husband and wives partners.
> Where has this push come from that a husband can no longer be called a husband?
> A wife is now a partner!
> What has been the norm in the past has been sabotaged by media that seeks to make changes to the way people think and they do it in such a subtle and sustained way!
> How can a single person adopt a child and then work to support that child?
> If the person is on the dole, is that single person in a position to raise a child?
> It is my submission that the laws on adoption remain unchanged. That the cost of adopting a child be a reasonable cost and that the honourable member concern himself with looking into why it is so difficult for couples to adopt children. Couple being a man and a woman.
